JOHNSON WAS RELEASED TODAY

Accused Gold Thief Dismissed From Custody by State Attorney
Morgan.

PRISONER HAS CONSUMPTION

In Addition to Ill Health it Was Thought he Could Not be Convicted.

A. S. Johnson, the man arrested in Shelbyville last week charged with having robbed Dr. F. M. Sparks' dental office here last July, was released from custody this afternoon by the prosecuting attorneys as it was thought they did not have sufficient evidence to warrant holding the man for trial until court convened in September.

Johnson was arrested in Shelbyville one week ago Sunday, where he was seen acting in a suspicious manner. Several days afterwards, the prosecuting witness left the State there and it was decided to let him go. Upon his release he was re-arrested by City Marshal Price of this city and brought here and lodged in jail. It was thought they had a strong case of circumstantial evidence against the man as Mrs. George Hatfield positively identified him as being the man who boarded at her place last summer and the man she saw enter the Sparks' dental parlor during the noon hour the day it was robbed.

Johnson is a sufferer of consumption and it is thought he cannot live very long. His wife has been at his side here and as both were penniless and in ill health, some sympathy arose in the case and probably had something to do with the final disposition of the case.

J. E. WATSON HOME FOR A SHORT STAY

Will Remain With His Family For a Week Taking a Much Needed Rest.

HAS MONTH OF CHAUTAUQUA'S

Hon. James E. Watson arrived home today from Washington where he has been for a number of weeks. While there he was employed in a legal capacity by some of the largest firms in the country. He also reported some parties having Indian claims in the southwest.

Mr. Watson will remain here for a week after which he will leave for a month, speaking at a number of the largest chautauqua's in the country. On every program where he appears Watson is the "head liner," the lyceum bureau's billing him with a glowing testimonial from Speaker Cannon who has declared: "Watson is the most eloquent man that has been in either Congress or the Senate for a number of years."

PLENTY CARP IN BLUE RIVER

It is said that a large number of fish have been caught in Blue River this last spring and summer. Most of the fish caught are carp. Last week one man captured one weighing ten pounds and another landed one that weighed eight pounds. Carp of smaller size were caught by the score. Several hundred good sized carp have been caught here this season.

GAVE HORSE NEW MARK

Manilla Horseman Has Success at Montpelier Races.

Dave Wagoner of Manilla has returned home from the races at Montpelier where his horses made good time, "J. J. S." making a new mark, says the Shelbyville Republican. The horse on Thursday won the pace in three straight heats, making for himself a new record, 2:15 1/4. This was the first race the horse had been in this season. "Haymond Russell," in the 2:12 pace, and "Marie Brown," in the 2:25 pace, both on Wednesday, won fourth money. Mr. Wagoner will start his three-year-old horse from Patchen Boy, in the races at Hagerstown next week.

CARNEGIE MEDAL FOR COLORED LAD

Those Who Saw "Pick" Hood's
Heroic Act, Declare He is Entitled to One.

SAVED A HORSE AND WAGON.

Earl Hood, a colored porter at the Grand hotel, and better known as "Pick," was a hero in a runaway this morning. The horse hitched to E. A. Lee's wagon became frightened and ran away, coming at break-neck speed up Second street, and as the wagon swung by the Grand hotel, young Hood ran and jumped in the back end and catching hold of the lines, brought the horse to a stop before any serious damage was done. Those who witnessed the incident were high in their praise of the daring displayed by the colored lad.

FLORENCE WEBBER TO TAKE STAR ROLE

Little Girl Who Sang With Rushville
High School Class, Now in New York.

WILL PLAY IN THE CLIMAX.

The Rushville people who went to New Castle on the special train with the local high school students when they played "The College Widow" there will remember the little girl, Miss Florence Webber of Indianapolis, who went along and furnished a song as a specialty. Since that time Miss Webber had been rapidly climbing the ladder of fame and this week announcement is made in New York City that the theatrical magnate, Joe Webber, will star her in that sensational play which has set all of New York agog, "The Climax." There are only four characters in the play and but one stage setting is used for the three acts given. Miss Webber is now rehearsing the play in New York City. It will be her first appearance in dramatics, her professional stunts heretofore being confined to musical pieces.

CHARLEY'S FAME.

Charley Wolf's fame has spread until he is getting editorial mention in the metropolitan papers. The Indianapolis Star has the following squib:

That Connersville "suicide king" has failed six times in his attempted taking off. A monarch with only one subject ought to do better than that.

Best Slogan for Rushville

That is what the Rush County Chautauqua Association wants for advertising Rushville. The Association offers a prize of Five Dollars for the phrase or slogan selected as the most suitable for the fight for a bigger and better town. The contest will be open from now until 6 p. m. on the evening of Aug. 6th. Slogans and phrases should be sent to the Slogan Contest Editor of the Daily Republican. Slogans arriving before noon will be published in this paper the same day. Everyone is eligible. Send in as many ideas as you have. The judges will be announced later. Announcement of winner will be made at the opening night of the Chautauqua.

What the Association wants is something new, crisp and effective. It wants something that won't wear out because it is to be used permanently in the future campaign for Rushville enterprises.

GARDEN PARTY AT HILL VIEW

The Blacklidges Entertained Over
Ninety Guests at Their Country Home.

HONORING A TALENTED WOMAN

Mrs. Jessie Nay-Wagoner, Poetess
and Reader of State-Wide Renown.

One of the smartest out-door society events of the season was a garden party given Saturday afternoon at the beautiful Hill View, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Blacklidge, north of this city. Over ninety invited guests enjoyed an afternoon that they will not soon forget for it teemed with pleasant features.

The affair was given in honor of Mrs. Jessie Nay-Wagoner of Knightstown, a reader and poetess of state-wide distinction, and one of the features of the Indiana Day program at the Rushville Chautauqua this season. The grounds were beautifully decorated for the occasion, and appropriate of the season, but-terflies were profusely in the decoration scheme and later for favors.

The hostess and guests did not do all of the entertaining, in fact, a major part of it fell to the lot of the one being entertained. Mrs. Wagoner, who has a charming manner of delivery, and who ranks with some of the best people reading on the lyceum stage, was encored time and again and in all gave eighteen of her original poems. It was a decided treat and delightfully refreshing for the guests to hear this talented woman in her own work. Miss Jessie Kitchen of this city, contributed an instrumental solo on the piano and Mrs. Ida Spurrier McDaniel sang a soprano solo.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Willis Miller, Mrs. Charles Snider, Miss Ella Snider and Mrs. Lee Pearson of Indianapolis and Miss Irene Converse of Harrison, O.

DENIES THE RUMOR.

W. S. Meredith was in the office today and denied the report that he was killed in an automobile accident Sunday. However a William S. Meredith of Lafayette was killed.

AT OLD CONVENT TOOK LIFE VOWS

Rushville Girls Were Central Figures in Imposing and Pompous Ceremony Today.

ONE TAKES VEIL FOR LIFE

While Her Sister Was Invested With Veil For Two Years—Mother Present.

Two former Rushville girls are principals in a religious drama of real life being enacted at the Oldenburg academy today. They are the daughters of Mrs. Bridget Canley of North Perkins street. One of the girls, Miss Catherine, who is known in the order of the Sisters of St. Francis as Sister Carmelita, has been a nun for ten years. During that time she has been employed in the parochial schools of St. Louis and Cincinnati teaching violin and German. She was educated at the convent after eight years study in the Rushville Catholic school.

After one is a sister for ten years they generally take the vows of sisterhood for life. That is what Sister Carmelita did today. A younger sister, Miss Sadie, who until recently was employed at the Bee Hive store here, was invested with the veil taking the vows of sisterhood today for two years. At the end of that time she can take a similar vow for eight years more and when that time has elapsed, the privilege of taking the vows for life, renouncing the world and giving up her life in a Christian work, is extended. The ceremony attending the affair today was marked with much pomp, ceremony and solemnity. Their mother Mrs. Canley and a number of relatives and friends from here were in attendance.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AT NIGHT.

An innovation in Sunday school services was inaugurated by the First M. E. Sunday school at Shelbyville Sunday. The afternoon school was abandoned for an evening service at the regular church hour.

Invitations were sent out to members and friends which read:

"You are cordially invited to attend the evening Sunday school session of the First M. E. church, Sunday evening, July 25, 1909, at 7:30. There will be a number of special features appropriate to the occasion."

Rushville is going to boom.

PICNIC FOR TOMORROW

First Presbyterian Sunday School
to Hold Event in Link's Grove.

The First Presbyterian church Sunday school picnic, which was postponed last Friday on account of inclement weather will be held in Link's Grove tomorrow afternoon, providing the elements permit.

NOVEL REQUEST OF A CHICAGO GROOM

Rev. Cowling Met Young Fellow in Liverpool While on a Tour Abroad.

WANTS HIM TO MARRY HIM.

While traveling in Europe last year, Rev. Cowling, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, met a young man from Chicago at Liverpool and the two were inseparable during the remainder of the tour. Rev. Cowling found the young man a very interesting companion, and no doubt the feeling was mutual, for Rev. Cowling had been brought up in England, and was well acquainted with the people and conditions there. However, he had almost dismissed the young man from his mind, when Saturday he received a letter from him which was a request that the local minister come to Chicago within the next few weeks and officiate at the wedding of the young man. Rev. Cowling has written that he will only be too glad to be present and perform the ceremony and will go during his vacation. Next Saturday he will leave for a few days' stay at Winoona.

AERIAL ARTISTS IN FREE ATTRACTION

LaBard Brothers Here For The Opening of Catholic Carnival
Tomorrow night.

SURPASS PREVIOUS EFFORTS

LaBard brothers, aerial artists, arrived today and will be on hand for the opening of the big Catholic carnival tomorrow night. They are said to be among the best trapeze and tight wire performers in the country and will give an open air free attraction every evening. This is the highest price free attraction, which has ever been secured by the Catholic young men for their annual carnival and from present indication the affair as a whole this year will far surpass all previous efforts. An added feature this year will be a ladies fancy work booth, in which most any sort of a novelty may be purchased.

PRUITT NOW IN THE SOUTH

Pitching Phenomenal Ball For New Orleans in Southern League.

Charley Pruitt, a former Rushville pitcher is making good this season with New Orleans in the Southern League. Last week he pitched a nineteen inning game against Little Rock, winning it and letting his opponents down with six hits.

Rushville is going to boom.

RIGHT SPIRIT IN UNION SERVICE

Emphasis is Placed on the Fact That All Are Striving For the Same End.

SERMON BY REV. J. W. COWLING

At Union Meeting Last Night Was Most Impressive, Inspiring and Helpful.

The third of a series of union meetings arranged for the summer by the churches of the city was held at the United Presbyterian church last night. The audience was large and appreciative and the services were inspiring and helpful.

Rev. J. F. Cowling, pastor of the First Presbyterian church preached the sermon having as his theme, "The Inheritance of the Saints," and was a strong and convincing appeal for preparation for God's prepared place for his children, one of the kind that plainly reveals the enormity and hideousness of sin and portrays, most beautifully the grandeur and beauty of the reward secured by living in right relationship with God.

A special feature that adds impressiveness to these union services is the emphasis placed upon the fact, by the reverential spirit of unity prevailing, "That we are all one in Christ Jesus." This is the kind of christian fellowship that is real, that means something and that is most pleasing to the Father above.

The music was in charge of A. C. Brown. The services next Sabbath evening will be held at the First Baptist church, North Morgan street, Dr. V. W. Tevis, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church will preach the sermon.

POSTPONED PICNIC TO BE WEDNESDAY

United Presbyterian Church Sunday School Will Picnic at Fair Grounds.

ATTRACTIVE GAMES TO BE HAD

After much delay and many postponements, the members of the United Presbyterian church and Sunday school will picnic at the fair ground Wednesday regardless of the weather, whether it be raining, snowing, blowing or storming. It seems that fate has been against them all summer as they were the first Sunday school to announce a picnic and that they will be the last one to hold theirs. But they have made up their minds to go if they have to spend the day in the amphitheater or one of the show halls. All arrangements have been made for everyone to go out on the traction car leaving the station at 10:44 in the morning and they will return on the car arriving here at 4:09 in the afternoon. Dinner will be served at noon. Attractive games and other amusements have been arranged for the day.

GOLD THIEF TO BE TRIED.

A. S. Johnson, the alleged gold thief, will be tried Monday in Mayor Cowling's court for the robbery of Dr. F. M. Sparks' office.

SIX LIVES LOST

A Wabash Passenger Train Plunges Into Missouri River.

Kansas City, Mo., July 26.—Wabash passenger train No. 4 plunged into the Missouri river thirty miles east of here and six persons were killed and three perhaps fatally injured.

The dead: Charles Flowers, engineer, Kansas City; Louis Bond, fireman, Moberly, Mo.; Harry Eckert, baggage man, St. Louis; Daniel, two-year-old son of E. L. King, Eldon, Mo.; Charles Anthony, laborer; Jesse Oldham, laborer.

Seriously injured: Frank Gardner, Mt. Vernon, O.; Mrs. S. S. Hackett and Miss Irene Borton, both of Orrick, Mo. Of the eight cars which made up the train five and the engine are now in the river, with the water covering all of them except one end of the Des Moines sleeper. A dead-head Pullman, mail, baggage, day coach and sleeper followed the engine into the stream. The chair car and two Pullmans alone remained uninjured.

At the scene of the wreck the river makes a bend and the railroad follows it. For days the flood waters have been undermining the roadbed, making it too weak to hold up the heavy trains. Three hours before the wreck a freight train of forty-five loaded cars passed the point safely. Fifty feet of the roadbed suddenly collapsed and engine and cars piled one on the other in the water.

SPANIARDS PRESSED

Reinforcements Against the Moors Awaited by General Marina.

Madrid, July 26.—The bombardment heard around Melilla Saturday, according to official dispatches, was a measure taken to prevent the enemy from massing. The gunboat Mastin Alonzo Pinzon assisted in the bombardment, after which she chased but did not catch two steamers suspected of carrying contraband arms. The bombardment was resumed Sunday.

The Moors are gathering in great force in the Rif region. It is estimated that they now number 20,000 and are preparing for a concerted attack. General Marina, commander of the Spanish forces, who has only 8,000 men, does not dare to take the offensive, but is awaiting the reinforcement of his army to 40,000.

President Taylor's Daughter Dead.
Winchester, Va., July 26.—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Dandridge, the daughter of President Zachary Taylor and a former mistress of the White House, died here Sunday evening after a brief illness.

GRAVE GIVES UP DREAD SECRET

Woman's Body Disinterred and Husband Held For Death.

AUTOPSY AFTER THREE MONTHS

Mrs. Henry Johnson, Buried Three Months Ago at Staunton, Ill., It Is Now Revealed Was the Victim of Violence—Following an Autopsy Which Revealed a Fractured Skull, the Woman's Husband, a Wealthy Farmer Living Near New Douglas, Was Arrested.

Staunton, Ill., July 26.—The body of Mrs. Henry Johnson was disinterred after having been buried nearly three months, and an autopsy found the woman's skull had been fractured, one eye blackened and her hands and arms cut. Following this finding Henry Johnson was arrested on a warrant charging murder and he was held to the grand jury. He was released on $10,000 bail bond. Mrs. Johnson was found dead April 10. A coroner's inquest at that time resulted in a verdict of death from unknown causes. Coroner Karnes of Carlinville disinterred the body at the request of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenthal, parents of Mrs. Johnson. Johnson and his wife lived near New Douglas and Johnson is wealthy. He said he found his wife dead in bed and he denied knowing how she met her death.

BANK CLERK GOES WRONG

Indiana National of Indianapolis Was "Touched" by Employee.

Indianapolis, July 26.—Norman B. Hamilton, a clerk in the Indiana National bank, was arrested on a charge of stealing a package of coin containing $500.

He confessed and was released on $2,000 bail. Hamilton had no explanation to offer, and merely acknowledged himself the victim of a strong temptation. He said he realized he was doing wrong at the time and acted in direct opposition to his better judgment. After the one little slip whereby the money went from the bank counter into his pocket, Hamilton declared he thought of replacing the small package, but was afraid.

"I carried the money around for several days," Hamilton said, through the prison bars, "and did not know what to do with it. I just can't understand why I took it in the first place and why I didn't put it back in the second. I am sorry—but it's all over now."

The young man was working for a salary of $50 a month as a clerk under the chief paying teller. He had been connected with the institution for four years and those in the bank never before suspected him of any wrongdoing. The officials themselves are unable to account for his downfall.

Gold in False Teeth Tempting.
Bloomington, Ind., July 26.—That John Clemm, seventeen years old, stole her false teeth to get the gold out of them is the unusual charge filed against the young man by Mrs. Julia Storms, a boarding house keeper. The boy was arrested and when searched at the jail pieces of gold that had been drilled out of the teeth were found in his pockets. Mrs. Storms alleges that Clemm took the teeth from her house as they lay on the mantel.

Fatal Auto Accident.
Lafayette, Ind., July 26.—William S. Meredith, twenty-eight years old, of Pine Village, was instantly killed and George Blackwell, thirty-five, was severely injured when an automobile in which they were riding crashed down a steep embankment along the Wabash river near here.

Too Much For the Grandstand.
Jackson, Mich., July 26.—A mob chased Umpire Eldridge of the Southern Michigan league from the grounds here Sunday. In the rush of the spectators the grandstand collapsed, injuring fifteen or twenty persons, three seriously.

Because Wife Wouldn't Kiss Him.
Denver, Col., July 26.—When his wife, Mrs. Florence Hummer, refused to kiss him upon his return to his home at night Charles Hummer, twenty-four years old, recently from West-point, Ind., fired a bullet into his brain.

Pure Food Commissioner.
Elgin, Ill., July 26.—Governor Deen announces that he will appoint John B. Newman, jr., of this city as assistant pure food commissioner. Newman will succeed Herman E. Schuknecht, also of Elgin.

A Father's Willing Sacrifice.
Dayton, Ky., July 26.—Sacrificing his own life to save that of his ten-year-old son, George Gast was killed by a passing train. The son was probably fatally injured.

John C. Staffek, alderman of Billings, Mont., his six-year-old child, Minnie Wagner and Tressie West, domestics, were drowned in the Yellowstone river by the capsizing of a boat.

DREAD VISITATION

Charbon, an Ancient Plague, Gets a Foothold in America.

Lake Charles, La., July 26.—That deadly and loathsome disease, charbon, which afflicts cattle and which has killed thousands of valuable animals in Louisiana, has attacked human beings now and many men are under treatment. In Leesburg, the county seat of Cameron parish, eight humans have been stricken. Up to date no deaths have resulted.

Charbon has afflicted cattle for centuries, but has seldom visited this country. It was known to the ancients in Egypt and often scourged the Asiatic and Oriental countries. It is caused by a germ which enters the animal's skin through an abrasion. It multiplies and causes an inflammation which turns into a tumorous or cancerous growth which terminates in blood poison. The United States government, alarmed by the inroads the disease has made, has sent experts from the bureau of animal industry to assist local veterinarians in fighting the plague. They are urging cremation of infected animals and the vaccination of all others. In Cameron parish alone one-fourth of the animals have died.

SHOOTING FOLLOWS STRIKE DISCUSSION

Passenger on an Evansville Streetcar Fatally Wounded.

Evansville, Ind., July 26.—In an argument over the streetcar strike, Herbert Kappler, nineteen years old, was shot and fatally wounded on a streetcar at Second and Vine streets, and Thomas M. Swope, conductor of the car, is held for attempted murder. Swope denies having fired the shot. He says he does not know who did it.

Kappler and two other young men who escaped immediately after the shooting and who are being sought by the police, boarded Swope's car in the lower part of the city. The conductor says that they began to taunt him about being a "scab" and then one of them struck him on the chin. A rough and tumble fight followed, he says, and he heard two pistol shots. Kappler dropped to the floor of the car. The conductor started to run away. Firemen of No. 2 hose house, a half square distant, ran to the car, which had stopped, and fireman Frank Cecil arrested Swope.

Witnesses who were standing on the corner when the shots were fired say that the car had stopped and that Motorman James Hayes and Conductor Swope were clinched with Kappler and that somebody was crying "Drop the gun!" Then the shots were fired and Kappler dropped, while Swope ran out of the car. A search of the car showed that a revolver, with two chambers discharged, was lying on the front platform.

Swope Admits Shooting.
Princeton, Ind., July 26.—Thomas Swope, the streetcar conductor who shot Herbert Kappler, a union iron molder of Evansville, was brought here enroute to the Jeffersonville reformatory to escape threatened mob violence. At the city prison he made his first confession, having previously denied his guilt, and told the story of the shooting. He said that Kappler and James Miller insulted him by calling him a scab, and then attacked him on the rear platform of the car, striking him in the face. "I tried to keep them off," said Swope, "without resorting to a weapon, but could not. When I saw Kappler shove his hand into his pocket as if to get a gun, I whipped out my revolver and fired. I then grappled with Miller and Motorman Fox came to my assistance, and Miller ran away." From this city Swope was taken to Jeffersonville.

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

Mystery Surrounds Shooting of Editor Mark Bassitt.

Tulsa, Okla., July 26.—With a pistol lying on the floor beside him, Mark Bassitt, editor of the Tulsa Daily News, former publisher at Mattoon and Kankakee, Ill., and manager of the Yates press bureau in the Republican primary campaign in Illinois last year, was found in the shop of the A. F. Black Printing company Sunday morning. The discovery was made by his little son.

Although Bassitt was shot through the brain, he is still alive at the hospital, where he was removed. There is but little chance for his recovery. Opinion is divided as to whether the shooting was an attempt at murder or suicide.

Passenger Packet Goes Down.
Gallipolis, O., July 26.—The passenger packet Tacoma, enroute from Charleston, W. Va., to Cincinnati, struck an obstruction in the Ohio river and sank. The passengers were taken off in safety before the boat went down.

Mysterious Texas Tragedy.
Beaumont, Tex., July 26.—Patrick J. Lynch, thirty-nine years old, steward of the local Elks club, was murdered about midnight Saturday night. The body was found Sunday morning at 7 o'clock by the porter. Several arrests have been made.

FIGHTING WITH LOCKED HORNS

Neither House Nor Senate in Position to Back Out.

HIDES AND LEATHER BLOCK IT

Senate Members Pledged to One Course Have Encountered the House Members Pledged to the Contrary, and There Is No Telling Where or How the Compromise Is Going to Be Effected—It Is Said Other Questions That Remain Unsettled Could Be Disposed of in an Hour With This Out of the Way.

Washington, July 26.—The hide and leather situation is just as badly entangled as it was when the conferees adjourned Saturday, notwithstanding the fact that the tariff conference held two sessions Sunday, one from 10 a. m. until 1 p. m., and the other from 3 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Today's session began at 2:30 this afternoon and the forenoon was occupied by advocates of protected hides in making a final appeal to President Taft that he stand just as firmly for material reductions in the duties on boots and shoes and other leather goods as he is standing for free hides.

So far as the conferees are concerned, they are fighting with locked horns. Until the senate members are assured of sufficient votes to adopt a conference report carrying hides on the free list, they will not permit this question to be brought to a vote. The house members have exhibited no signs of weakening and many of them have assumed that it will be impossible to reduce leather goods below the house rates. In support of this the house leaders insist that the conferees are not empowered to agree upon duties lower than the lowest rates fixed by either branch of congress.

It was argued today that it is possible to bring in a special rule in the house declaring "in order" rates on leather goods below the duties fixed by the house bill. Without such a rule, it was said, the speaker would be compelled to decide that the conferees had exceeded their authority if they should bring in a report naming rates on leather goods, such as boots and shoes, sole leather, calfskins and harness, lower than those fixed by the house bill.

No predictions are made as to when the conference report will be made to the house. It is not a question of what the conferees are willing to do, but what will happen to their report when it is presented. Senator Aldrich will not take the chance of introducing something which might be rejected. Neither will he take the responsibility of attempting to compel the advocates of protected hides to recede from their position without commensurate concessions by leather interests. None of the other controversies which remain unsettled is thought to involve insuperable difficulties. When the subject of hides and leather is gotten out of the way, the feeling is that all of the other subjects could be disposed of in an hour. It is practically settled that coal will be made dutiable at 15 cents a ton, oil free, lumber at $1.25 or $1.50 per thousand feet with the senate differentials, and gloves and hosiery at rates slightly under the advances made by the house over the Dingley rates.

TAFT HOLDS OUT

President Has Not Receded From His Demand For Free Hides.

Washington, July 26.—Sunday brought no cessation of President Taft's tariff activities. His conferences with house and senate leaders covered practically the entire day. Although he admitted frankly to several of his callers that the situation was not all that could be desired, the president expressed the hope that another twenty-four hours would suffice to straighten out the tangle in the conference and that the report of the conferees would be presented in the house tomorrow. President Taft, it was learned, has not receded in any way from his demand for free hides. He is authentically represented as regarding free hides as a typical case underlying the whole principle of downward revision, and if free hides should be lost little of encouragement to the real revisionists remains.

The End Was the Same.

Philadelphia, July 26.—Sudden death prevented John P. Rodel, aged sixty-seven years, from committing suicide. After climbing on a barrel, tying a noose about his neck and attaching the end of the rope to a spike in the wall, he died from heart disease. His body was found on the barrel with the noose hanging loosely about the neck.

Police Inspector Indicted.
Chicago, July 26.—Edward McCann, police inspector of the Fourth district, with headquarters at the Desplaines street station, has been indicted by the Cook county grand jury on charges of grafting from resorts in the west side levee.

A FAST TRAIN LEAVES TRACK

Disaster On Big Four Might Have Been Worse.

HAPPILY NO ONE WAS KILLED

While Going at a Rate of Fifty Miles an Hour a Train From Chicago to Cincinnati Went Into the Ditch Seventeen Miles Northwest of Indianapolis—Out of the Two Hundred Passengers, but Six Were Injured So Badly as to Be Sent to Hospitals.

Indianapolis, July 26.—In the wreck of Big Four train No. 16, enroute from Chicago to Cincinnati, at Zionsville, seventeen miles northwest of Indianapolis, at 2:20 o'clock Sunday afternoon, forty-two persons were injured, six of them seriously.

The train, running at a speed of fifty miles an hour, jumped the track, some of the coaches turning over. There were about 200 passengers in the coaches, and the fact that none was killed is regarded as miraculous by the railroad officials.

Passengers who were imprisoned in the overturned cars escaped through windows. Physicians from Zionsville and Indianapolis dressed the victims' injuries, and, with the exception of six persons who are now in hospitals in this city, all the passengers continued their journey.

The cause of the wreck, so far as could be determined by officials of the road, was the dropping of a brakebeam or brake shoe from beneath one of the cars, causing the trucks to pass over the obstruction. The impact thus caused, it is believed, resulted in the derailment of the baggage car, and finally the entire train left the rails.

The more seriously injured taken to local hospitals were: Mrs. George Gould, Lexington, Ky., broken collar bone; Mrs. H. B. Creel, Cincinnati; Mrs. Eva Hooker, Indianapolis, sprained ankle and bruised leg; Mrs. Mary Elzy, Louisville, Ky., right shoulder dislocated, both hips and right leg injured; J. C. Long, 832 Park avenue, Indianapolis, stomach injury.

WANTS CHINA AS ALLY

Colonel Lewis Tells of Benefits In Business and War.

FAVORS A DECISIVE STAND.

Chicago Lawyer, Home From World Tour, Sees Rich Opportunity In Far East—Points to Danger In Japan and Says Japanese Are Planning Decisive Struggle With United States.

After a trip around the world, which involved extended visits in both China and Japan because of an official government mission with which he was charged, Colonel James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago recently arrived in New York city, and, as a result of close study of actual conditions in the Orient, he emphatically affirmed the necessity of the United States seeking a commercial alliance with the Chinese empire.

Colonel Lewis positively asserted that the United States government, if this nation is not to be a mere nonentity in the affairs of the far east, cannot afford to recede from its right to share in the development of the Chinese empire. A decisive stand, he held, should be taken at the outset with reference to American participation as a nation and not as a subsidiary through arrangements with foreign bankers in the Hankow-Szechuan railway loan now pending final settlement.

"We have given too much attention to what we are pleased to call 'our business prospects in Japan,'" declared the colonel in presenting the situation in a nutshell, "and far too little attention to the great commercial opportunities awaiting development if we but take advantage of the invitation offered in China."

In a direct way Colonel Lewis threw light on the actual and inimical sentiment existing among the masses of Japan toward the United States. He disclosed certain incidents, one of which has never passed beyond government circles, inspiring this attitude and flatly asserted that "had it not been for a stringent lack of financial resources the Japanese would have attempted seizure of the Philippines when the Pacific coast states were ringing with demands for anti-Japanese legislation."

"The United States must do one of two things at once," he said. "She must either withdraw from all association with the Orient and be a mere nonentity in the affairs of the eastern world or push with force and decisiveness her policy of participation upon her merits in the commercial progress of Asia, and, further, she must demonstrate not only such to be her intention, but that she regards on the part of any people a move to prevent such participation as an affront that will be resented by such measures as would become a nation of the dignity and power of America."

"The Japanese official is not now looking for conflict with America because Japan has no money. Japan today is taxed to an extent in excess of any country that can be called civilized. And the navy projected by Japan, coupled with the army basis in prospect, when realized will make Japan the largest military and naval power in proportion to its population in the world, with one exception as to army magnitude."

"This course of military multiplication on the part of Japan is on the theory that it will ultimately be necessary for the defense of that country against the foreigner and that now is the time to prepare for what its people feel will be some form of conflict inevitable in the future."

"The ordinary citizen of Japan is busy today making war on the administration in power because it will not give America a licking in punishment for keeping the Japanese out of our country and allowing our states to pass or agitate exclusion measures. They demand answer as to why American capital is allowed to enter their country, why we are permitted to maintain missionaries there and why our people enter there at will, while such privileges are forbidden them here."

"The Japanese is a sensitive being. He is more sensitive to being held up to the world as enduring discrimination than the mere loss involved entails. The Japanese as a nation are discreet and reserve their grievances for the opportunity of retaliation and compensation. Let me illustrate, and there is little public knowledge of this fact, but I saw the original records in Tokyo. When the United States annexed Hawaii there was then existing between the royal governments of Hawaii and Japan a contract by which the Japanese were to enter those islands at will, while the products of Hawaiian sugar farms were to go to Japan in exchange. When the United States took the islands and necessarily extended the alien contract labor laws Japan objected formally."

"This fact is on record in Tokyo as well as the fact that Mr. Sherman, then our secretary of state, gave assurances that these privileges would be continued. Today we are keeping the Japanese out of there naturally. There are those in Japan who insist that had official assurances not been given at that time they would have opposed our absorption of the islands and that, as the Hawaiians are more allied to the Japanese than to the United States, they would have aided the opposition."

"All these things the Japanese refer to as typical of 'American discrimination.' If Japan had had money to sustain an army and navy in conflict when exclusion legislation was so violently agitated in the Pacific coast states last winter she would have seized the Philippines, as she has frequently sought to do since 1900.

"Japan neither eats nor wears to any appreciable degree the things we have to sell, while China, on the other hand, craves for these products and, with a population twelve times that of Japan, naturally has twelve times the latter's demand. China, too, has no inimical feeling toward America as America, and if convinced that the United States would do what is in its power to prevent other nations now in possession of portions of China from dividing up that empire China would gladly be our preferential customer in the Orient. If China were convinced that our policy was to be a conquest of commerce in its empire and not a conquest of country she would be the source of commercial patronage to America that would make us the leading furnishing nation of all things in Asia."

"Trouble over our participation in the Eastern railroad loan has been prompted by the fact that certain German influences have pumped China with the idea that America and England have gone together for the purpose of urging construction of this road for ultimate use as a military line for their future purposes. If America shall promptly convince China that the policy of President Taft is not only peaceful, with no intention of foraging on its territory, but to prevent that very dismemberment of the empire and that our entrance in Chinese affairs will be for participation in trade and not in territory, then and there automatically a commercial alliance will spring up between China and the United States."—Chicago Record-Herald.

FLIRTING FOR RECREATION.

Harvard Professor Says It Gives Proper Knowledge of Social Life.

Professor George Herbert Palmer of Harvard university, twice married and reported to be contemplating a third venture in matrimony, has come forth with the pronouncement that a little flirting—properly conducted, of course—is not only advisable, but even imperative, for the average college boy and girl.

Flirting is the surest road toward the proper knowledge of social life, declares the professor, who has the distinction of being the oldest member of the Harvard faculty and whose second wife, Alice Freeman Palmer, was president of Wellesley college from 1881 to 1887.

"I think the girls of Radcliffe and the boys of Harvard devote too much of their time to study," says Professor Palmer. "They should mingle a little frivolity with their studies. In other words, they should flirt a little."

"I am reminded of a girl graduate of Radcliffe who studied hard. She never went anywhere. While the other girls were having a good time she remained in her room studying. She was graduated with high honors, and when I was bidding her goodbye I told her that she would have to flirt good and hard to make up for lost time, and she said that she would."

"Of course it makes a good deal of difference who does the flirting, where and with whom. The time, the place and the boy and girl have a good deal to do with it. If all could see the tired out boys and girls that I see all would, I know, admit that a little bit of flirting now and then is real recreation. Mix things up a bit, sprinkle a little flirting into the studies. One can have a little of both and still come out all right at the end."

BAN ON FEATHER DUSTER.

Health Officer Says It Scatters Deadly Germs in the Home.

"When one-seventh of the world's deaths are caused by consumption it is time that we did some scaring of the people on the subject of tuberculosis," declared Dr. Hills Cole of the New York state department of health the other night in Detroit, Mich., before the American Institute of Homeopathy.

"The household feather duster is a most potent means of scattering consumption germs. Why do housewives use feather dusters, anyway? They don't remove dust—they only redistribute it. Their manufacture should be prohibited by law. What shall we use in our houses? Why, a damp cloth, of course."

Thirteenth Baby Lucky.

The Yates thirteenth baby, born on the 13th of June in Trenton, N. J., is still attracting attention. A couple who said they were Mr. and Mrs. William Morris of Morristown, N. J., went to the Yates home the other day in an automobile and offered to clothe the baby completely until she reached the age of twenty-one if the parents would name her Mary Ellen Morris Yates, the first of the name being that of Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. Yates says she has the offer under advisement and thinks well of it because the Morris people do not wish to deprive her of the youngster.

The Hamburg's Roosevelt Book.

When Colonel Roosevelt decided to sail on the Hamburg a press clipping bureau was directed to gather all that was published concerning the voyage, and 6,820 separate items were secured. These were mounted on Irish linen leaves, four columns to page of 13 by 15 inches in size, and filled 820 pages, aggregating 49,200 inches of solid reading. The bound book, although the leaves are of the thinnest material usable, measures one foot two inches thick. The book will eventually be placed in the library of the steamship Hamburg.

PEOPLES' STATE FAIR

How State Board of Agriculture and Exposition Are Formed and Controlled by Indians.

GROUNDS OWNED BY THE PEOPLE

Property Held in Trust by the State Board, Subject to Laws of Legislature—How Farmers and Breeders Name Members of the Board—The Purposes of the State Fair.

The Indiana State Board of Agriculture is organizing the fifty-sixth State Fair, and during the week of Sept. 6 the exposition will be the center of interest for the people from the farms as well as from towns and cities. Under the law which created it, and under which the State Board has operated since 1851, the fair belongs to the people of Indiana, as does all the property in the board's possession. The Indiana State Board of Agriculture, the organized force which conducts the fair, cannot sell or dispose of the exposition grounds, mortgage or encumber the property, or issue bonds against it, without the consent of the legislature. The board holds all of the property controlled by it in trust for the benefit of the people of the state, notwithstanding the fact that the paper title is in the board.

The membership of the board comes directly from the agricultural element of the state. It is the farmers and livestock breeders who organize and meeting in January. He receives $5 a day while attending board meetings, his railroad fare and hotel expenses. This is the only pay which comes to him for a year's service. The only salaried officers of the board are the secretary and treasurer. The secretary gives his time to the business of the board and to the exposition throughout the year.

The State Board of Agriculture is a non-political association, and will always continue to be as long as the present method of choosing the members is followed. The members managing the board's affairs have but one purpose in view, and that is to conduct a great agricultural, horticultural, livestock and mechanical exposition for the advancement of these interests throughout the state. While it is not the purpose of the board to conduct the State Fair for the making of money, yet it is always desirable that the exposition each year shall not be conducted at a loss. For the last ten years the Indiana Fair has been very successful from a financial standpoint. The profits from the fair are always put back into improvements on the fair grounds, the State Board looking to the education and comfort of the patrons of the exhibition.

The State Fair comes nearer being an organization belonging to all the people of Indiana than any other enterprise in the state. The State Board and Fair were created by the legislature for the purpose of educating the agricultural classes in the greater perfection of crop production, in the improvement of livestock and to advance the general prosperity of the people on the farms of Indiana.

A dental college has recently been added to the University of Madrid.

WORLD TOUR IN AUTO

Remarkable Journey to Be Taken by American Woman.

PURELY A PLEASURE TRIP.

Mrs. Harriet Clark Fisher of Trenton, N. J., Will Carry Complete Camping Outfit, Including Rifles and Revolvers, in Her Motorcar—Novel Plan For Receiving Fresh Supplies.

Mrs. Harriet Clark Fisher, widow of Captain Clark Fisher, U. S. N., has announced her intention of taking a trip around the world in an automobile. In the near future she will ship her large touring car to either Southampton or Liverpool to start on her globe girdling journey. The route will lie through England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany, Italy, Egypt, India and Japan. From Japan Mrs. Fisher will go by steamer to San Francisco and upon arrival in the United States will travel in her motorcar across the continent, ending the round the world tour at her home in Trenton, N. J.

This is a remarkable undertaking for a woman, but Mrs. Fisher does not fear to attempt the trip.

Mrs. Fisher says the trip will be "purely a pleasure tour," in spite of the natural obstacles that must be overcome. She believes the trip to be feasible and will make careful notes regarding the road conditions and route, so that other women who desire to make the same journey may profit by her experience.

The only extra equipment on her car will be a thirty-two gallon gasosupplied by the drivers in the famous New York to Paris automobile race of last year. Egypt, once the epitome of the world's learning; India, the land of mystery; the Russians, with their traditionally despotic laws—all of these places are to be visited by the motoring party.

It is Mrs. Fisher's plan to reach Japan in time for the cherry season. The motoring party is likely to encounter trouble in those islands in taking the heavy motorcar across the bamboo bridges of ancient construction that were built only to hold the light jinrikishas.

When San Francisco is reached the automobile party will spend some time motoring through California, the roads of that state being splendid. Then the eastward trip across the continent will begin. The Rocky mountains and the slopes of the golden west will give Mrs. Fisher and her party trouble. Mrs. Fisher insists she will make her car go under its own power from start to finish.

Mrs. Fisher has been preparing for some time for the round the world tour. As a preliminary she is touring in the United States now, making the journey from New York to Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburg, Youngstown, Cleveland, Toledo and several western cities. When she finishes the trip at New York the car will be crated and shipped abroad.—New York Times.

Cactus For Papermaking.

Successful experiments are being made at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, with cactus as a source of paper stock. The supply is unlimited, and the use of this material in place of wood pulp would be a great aid toward preserving forests.

Collectors of Spoons.

Miss Marjorie Gould has one of the largest collections of spoons in the United States, and she is adding to it almost daily. She has a spoon from every state in the Union, each with the coat of arms of the state on the handle. She also has spoons from almost every city in Europe. A few of the collection are of gold, but the majority are of silver. Miss Helen Taft also is a spoon collector, but she goes in exclusively for odd designs. It is Miss Taft's aim to complete a collection marking all the oddities in spoon-making since the time when spoons first were used down to the present day. She is an authority on spoon-making since the earliest times, as is Miss Gould.

Chicken Feather Remover.

An electric fan has been devised to remove the feathers from chickens. Its blast is said to clean one completely in a few seconds.

MOUNTAIN BROOK ON HOTEL.

Also Woodland of Five Hundred Trees For a New York Roof Garden.

With the intention of having the roof garden of the Hotel Astor in New York ready to open on the night of July 1, W. C. Muschenheim, the proprietor, put 500 men to work up there the other day to complete the elaborate plans made for it.

"The roof garden will be the largest in the world," said Mr. Muschenheim recently. "There will be three full orchestras, one in the Belvedere, or restaurant de luxe, one in the rose garden and one in the palm garden. I have called in the best landscape artists that I could find."

"At the lower end of the garden a mountain brook of ice water will be seen plunging down the side of a rocky promontory into a woodland pool, in which goldfish and the smaller species of wild duck will be swimming. More than 500 trees and flowering plants have already been set out, and there will be more of them."

"Another feature will be a large white flag blown out from the top of a sixty foot pole by a motor fan. A searchlight stereopticon will flash on this banner the flag of the United States, except at such times as a foreign ambassador or minister may be stopping at the hotel. Then it will flash the flag of his country."

"The scheme was tried the other night, when the New York state flag was flashed on the white banner. It worked very successfully."

AMERICA, WORLD AWAKENER.

Brazilian Ambassador Declares There Never Was Such a Youth as Ours.

In the absence of Senor Joachim Nabuco, Brazilian ambassador to the United States, who was prevented by illness from coming to Madison, Wis., his baccalaureate address on "The Share of America in Civilization" to the graduating class of the University of Wisconsin was read the other day by President C. R. Van Hise.

"If I were asked of good America what to Europe," Senor Nabuco's address said, "I would say that Columbus cut large doors and windows on the west side of the old European manor, which received its ventilation only from the east. America has regenerated the old world since the sixteenth century as effectually as the influx from central Europe regenerated it in the middle ages."

Of American education he said: "You alone give us the greatest of all human teachings self reliance. And, now to mankind, you teach self reliance not only to men, but to women. There never existed in the world such a youth of both sexes with the same training for life. You plunge them, since the childhood, in a bath that gives to both the strength and the elasticity of steel. You have changed the rhythm of life; you write it in quick tempo, and the world is catching from you the spirit of rapid transformation and is writing it also in the American prestissimo instead of the old adagio."

LIVE STOCK PARADES AT THE INDIANA STATE FAIR.

The live stock parades form one of the choice features of the Indiana state fair. They are given on days when crowds are largest, 40,000 or 50,000 people often seeing hundreds of America's best horses and cattle move along the drives of the grounds. At night the parades are repeated on very elaborate scale in the Coliseum. The premiums on show horses and cattle for the coming state fair, week of Sept. 6, amount to $14,807.

who keep alive the county and district fair and agricultural societies of Indiana, and the president of these societies, representing the farming classes of their communities, elect the members of the State Board of Agriculture. These members are elected at the annual meeting held at the state house in January of each year.

The State Board is made up of sixteen members and for convenience, and following the plan of all such state organizations, Indiana is divided into sixteen agricultural districts, similar to the congressional districts. The board so elected selects a president and vice president from its own membership, changing these officers every year. A secretary, and a general superintendent are also elected, being chosen for their personal qualifications. The other members of the board occupy an advisory capacity, and during the period of the fair they serve as superintendents of the departments. This plan of organization for the board was evolved by Governor Joseph A. Wright and recommended by him to the legislature of 1851, after the State Board had for several years been managed by a commission of five members who received their appointment at the hands of the governor. The members have absolutely no personal interest in the property of the board or its receipts, their sole ambition is to conduct a high-class fair.

It is common for a member to continue in the service of the board for a number of years, for as time goes by his experience as a department manager makes him of increasing value to the fair. Yet the personnel of the board is constantly changing through the retirement of gray-haired members because of long service, with fresh blood coming on the board from the county and district agricultural societies. There are very few members on the State Board this year who held membership ten years ago.

The State Fair is far from being a source of financial gain for the men who have to carry the burden of its responsibilities. A member attends two sessions of the board a year, the longest period of the sessions being while the fair is in preparation and in actual operation, and the other period is two or three days at the annual

PLEA FOR A SANE FOURTH.

Pastor Would Not Abolish Firecrackers, but Bar Harmful Explosives.

The Rev. William Dayton Roberts, pastor of Temple Presbyterian church, in Philadelphia, recently pleaded with his congregation to observe the Fourth of July in a rational manner and to impress upon others the wisdom in this action. He condemned excessive and unnecessary noisemaking and the firing of harmful explosives, but declared he favored allowing the small boy effervescing with patriotism to observe the day in milder ways.

"The United States is again preparing for the great national sacrifice on the Fourth," said the pastor. "In the large cities announcements are being made that antitoxin is ready, cots and ambulances at hand for any emergencies, surgeons prepared and the fire department awaiting the call to extinguish blazes caused by fireworks. What this nation ought to do is not to save, but to prevent loss of life, injuries and property loss."

"I would not abolish firecrackers in toto, but would prohibit the firing of harmful explosives. Let the boy have his handful of small firecrackers and then let him attend some large pyrotechnical display by the city and there will be fewer accidents, fewer deaths and less sorrow in the homes of the nation on the morning after. According to the American Medical Journal, the total accidents on each Fourth averages 4,882, due to the exuberance of children and culpable carelessness of their parents. The total deaths on Independence day in six years number 1,300, all due to this carelessness."

During the sermon the pastor praised the newspapers of Philadelphia and other cities in their appeals to have the Fourth observed sanely and judiciously.

Chicago now claims a population of 3,500,000, which is surprisingly small. We had supposed from the noise they constantly made that it had that many freak universities.

It costs more for the rich to die in the parade as John Bull's annual the pond, as John Bull's annual rake-off in the shape of an inheritance tax reaches the tidy sum of $90,000,000.

A decision of the court of appeals of New York, in the case which grew out of a dispute over the right to a car seat, holds that placing a piece of baggage in a seat does not pre-empt the space. The court rules that passenger cars are to carry persons, not baggage, and that filling a seat with luggage confers no title to the seat on the owner of the grip. In other words if a traveler wishes to make sure of sitting in an ordinary day coach he or she must take a seat and hang on to it.

It is said that private letters from President Roosevelt show that he is suffering from homesickness despite the fact he has slain the full quota of lions, tigers, rhinos, hippos and has even secured specimens of the dingding and the dub-dub. Anybody who has ever stolen warily upon the spoor of the ding-ding or approached the wallow of the dub-dub will appreciate what this means. A mighty nimrod homesick under such circumstances simply goes to show that the big stick has so much magnetism that it may after all be a tough and knotty limb of the tree used in making the North Pole.

GAVE A HELPING HAND.

(Shelbyville Republican)

A Greensburg preacher is declaring a boycott on the Decatur County fair because he does not like the advertising posters put up by the management. He is advertising the posters and now everybody in Decatur county is particular to look at them. Thus is he making prominent the very thing he wants suppressed. SHOOT WHILE YOU WAIT.

(Connersville Courier.)

A number of our exchanges have devoted a half column or more to the story of the new "pencil pistol." It is described as being about four inches long and firing a thirty-two caliber bullet. It can almost be concealed in the palm of her hand, they say, and is especially handy for the ladies to carry to protect themselves from robbery or insult. The scheme may be all that is claimed for it, but we should not imagine a gun big enough to fire a 32 caliber projectile would be much like a pencil.

WHY IS THE MOTORCYCLE.

(New Castle Times.)

Man's mind is generally of an inventive turn, and in the majority of instances the wonderful products of his hands and brain are for the convenience and comfort of mankind. But why is the motorcycle?

In a number of Indiana cities ordinances are being passed compelling the use of mufflers on motorcycles so that the sound of the devilish contrivances will be considerably lessened. The idea is a good one. The motorcycle is one of the most nerve-racking machines ever invented from everyone's point of view except the cyclist himself, who from the very fact that he uses the machine, can be expected to have no nerve tissue whatever. And then after the muffling ordinance is passed, it would be a good idea to cut the speed of the motorcycles to four miles an hour and limit the hours of their use from one to three o'clock in the morning, with a heavy penalty for a violation of the time clause.

A REMARKABLE QUILT.

(Greenfield Tribune.)

The Little Sugar Creek church Mite Society has a quilt on exhibition at the store of Service & Rogers that is remarkable for the amount of work and workmanship on it. The quilt is white with fifty-six wheels worked in it in blue.

In each of these wheels are twelve names stamped. The names of everyone in the church neighborhood, many from this city and some from California, Washington, Missouri and other States are on the quilt, which is quilted neatly in small squares, requiring three spools of thread.

The Mite Society is composed of seventeen ladies, who will give a festival about the first of August and sell the quilt at auction.

LITTLE GIRL A HEROINE.

(Liberty Herald.)

A horse of F. A. Miabaugh's, driven to the delivery wagon by Charley Darr, ran away on Union street Monday evening at 4 o'clock. The boy lost control of the lines at the corner of Market street and seized the wagon seat. By this time the lug on the near side broke loose and the lug on the other side held the wagon until the horse and vehicle collided with a buggy belonging to Mrs. Robert Hess in which were a little girl and Mrs. Hess' year old baby. The collision upset the buggy and threw the baby under the vehicles and dangerously near the heels of the kicking horse.

It was here that the little girl, Myrtle Miller, acted the part of the heroine, dexterously crawling under the vehicles and rescuing the baby and this she did just in time to save it from being struck by the horse. Charley Darr escaped injury, although very much excited, as the perilous conditions were calculated to cause him to be.

Revives Fond Recollections

Regarding the naming of the Gowdy farm, west of this city, the following letter was received by Capt. Gowdy, which will be read with interest by many of the "old timers."

Morristown, July 21, 1909.

John K. Gowdy, Rushville, Ind.
Dear Sir:—I am glad you named your farm "Pleasant Grove Farm." I helped to raise the frame of the Pleasant Grove Presbyterian church. I worshipped there many times. I also helped to build the Hugh Fleehart home—worked on it all of the summer of 1857. Frank Lee and I were journeymen carpenters on the building and Jeff Lee and Sam Beal were the bosses, and John Fleehart helped us pitch horse shoes every day at the noon hour.

Respectfully,
W. A. BODINE.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Revision of the book of rules for the operation of the interurban railroads of the state was begun Friday by a committee which met for the purpose on the call of the Indiana Railroad Commission. The members who responded to the call were: C. D. Emmonds, general manager Ft. Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction Company; H. A. Nichols, general manager Indiana Union Traction Company; Fletcher M. Robbins, general manager Evansville and Southern Indiana Traction Company, and Mr. Jeffries, general manager of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Company.

The revision was begun at the request of the interurban roads of the State, following the recent trolley disaster at Chesterton. The general managers of all the interurban roads in the State were included in the revision committee proposed by the commission by the interurban companies. The commission made no recommendations to the committee.

BY THE WAYSIDE

An old maid in the northeastern section of the city, who for years has endeavored to conceal her age, has come to grief through the innocent act of a little nephew. Wherein lies the moral: If you desire to keep anything quiet, don't let the children know. The spinster had a birthday anniversary recently. Even her closest friends were kept in ignorance of the fact. But at the home there was a little private family celebration.

The birthday supper was prepared at home. The sister of the spinster baked a large and palate-pleasing cake bearing candy decorations. The design was arranged with forty-two pieces, representing the age of the celebrant.

It was the purchasing of the candy for the decorations that let the cat out of the bag. A little nephew was sent to the confectionary instructed to purchase the candy. He was told to get ten cents' worth, provided he could buy forty-two pieces for that amount.

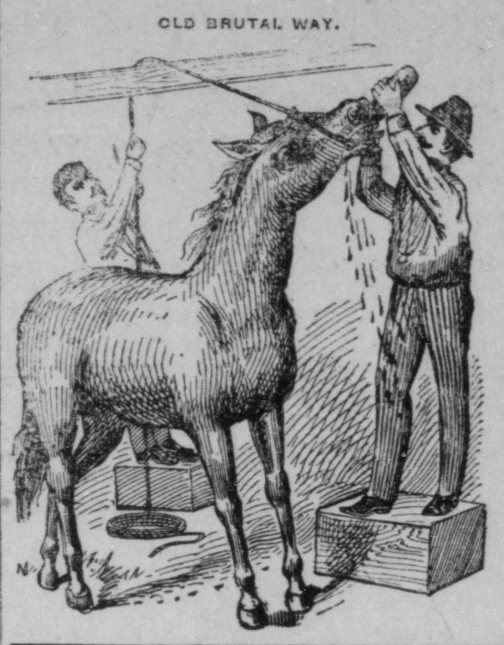

"How many pieces of such-and-such candy do you sell for a dime?" inquired the lad.

"Oh, about seventy-five."

"Well, then, I want a dime's worth, that will be enough. We only need forty-two pieces for Auntie's birthday cake."

Hillary Hayden has a combination carriage and saddle horse which exhibits more "horse sense" than many people. He has the good judgment to go home when turned loose, and many have not even that attribute. The horse is kept at the Smalley livery barn, and after his master has been riding him, the saddle is taken off at the Hayden home in North Main street, and the horse turned loose. He goes to the barn by the nearest route and as soon as he can get there. The owner says that he would not be afraid to send him down alone hitched to the phaeton, if it were not for the interference by someone attempting to stop him.

Willie Carroll, the ingenious and clever clerk employed at Morris & Bassler's store has arranged a fashionable hat on a wax figure bust in the show window, all the material used being from the hardware stock. The new style effect was found when a large wooden bread bowl was turned up side down on her head. Butcher knives, soup ladles and other "ornaments" were used to trim the hat.

Kidney Troubles Attack Rushville Men and Women, Old and Young.

Kidney ills seize young and old. Come quickly with little warning. Children suffer in their early years—

Can't control the kidney secretions. Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.

Women worry, can't do daily work. Men have lame and aching backs. The cure for man woman or child. Is to cure the cause—the kidneys—

Cure all forms of kidney suffering. Rushville testimony proves it.

Mrs. L. M. Smith, 329 East Tenth street, Rushville, Ind., says: "My child was afflicted with kidney complaint and suffered severely from backaches, headaches and a distressing kidney weakness. The doctors could give no relief and every remedy that was proved just as useless. At last we read of Doan's Kidney Pills and my husband obtained a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. They brought great relief and the child has been benefited in every way. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in the highest terms."

AMUSEMENTS

Immense crowds packed the Vaude at every show Saturday night. Tonight a complete change of program, "The True Lover" and "Oriental Mystics" will be shown. They are both excellent dramatic subjects, said to depict a story of thrilling human interest. Earl Robinson will sing "If You Were I and I Were You."

"A Squeedunk Sherlock Holmes" and "An Absent Minded Cupid" are the titles of the subjects to be shown at the Star-Grand tonight. Both are comic pictures of the best type and are said to be a scream. Miss Iva Brown will sing the illustrated song "Blue Feather."

The Palace theater has a semi-comic film tonight to offer in the subject, "Troubles of an Amateur Detective." It is a story with a moral which has a comic vein running through it. Miss Blanch Wrennick will sing, "Whose Little Girlie, Are You?"

Important for Rushville Ladies.

N. Rose, the well known importer of suitings, silks and dress goods, will have his display at Mrs. C. E. Cowing's, 211 West Second street. Do not miss this opportunity, it is only for four days. Goods must go at 50c on the dollar. 115t3

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR
M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead
& Co.

As they moved away from the vine covered nook in the garden a hand parted the leaves in the balcony above, and the dark, saturnine face of a trusted servant appeared behind it. This secret espionage had been going on for days in the chateau. Scarcely a move was made or a word spoken by the white people that escaped the attention of the swarthy spy. And, curiously enough, these spies were no longer reporting their discoveries to Hollingsworth Chase.

The days passed. Hollingsworth Chase now realized that he no longer had authority over the natives. Rasula made the reports for the islanders and took charge of the statements from the bank.

Every morning Chase rode boldly into the town, transacted what business he could, talked with the thoroughly disturbed bankers and then defiantly made his way to the chateau. He was in love with the princess—desperately in love. He understood perfectly—for he was a man of the world and cosmopolitan—that nothing could come of it. She was a princess, and she was not in a story book; she could not marry him.

So far as Geneva was concerned, on her part it could mean no more than a diversion, a condescension to coquetry, a simple flirtation; it meant the passing of a few days, the killing of time, the pleasure of gentle conquest, and then—forgetfulness. All this he knew.

At first she revolted against the court he so plainly paid to her in these last few days. It was bold, conscienceless, impertinent. She avoided him; she treated him to a short season of disdain; she did all in her power to rebuke his effrontery—and then in the end she decided to give him as good as he sent in this brief battle of folly. It mattered little who came off with the fewest scars, for in a fortnight or two they would go their separate ways, no better, no worse, for the conflict. And, after all, it was very dull in these last days, and he was very attractive and very brave and very gallant and, above all, very sensible.

They rode together in the park every morning, keeping well out of range of marksmen in the hills. Their conflict was with the eyes, the tone of the voice, the intervals of silence; no touch of the hand—nothing except the strategies of Eros.

What did it matter if a few dead impulses, a few crippled ideals, a few blasted hopes, were left strewn upon the battlefield at the end of the fortnight? What did anything matter so long as Prince Karl of Brabetz was not there?

One night toward the end of this week of enchanting encounters—this week of effort to uncover the vulnerable spot in the other's armor—Geneva stood leaning upon the rail which inclosed the hanging garden. She was gazing abstractedly into the black night, out of which far away blinked the light in the bungalow. It was the first night in a week that he had missed coming to the chateau.

She missed him. She was lonely.

He had told her of the meeting that was to be held at the bungalow that night at which he was to be asked to deliver over to Rasula's committee the papers, the receipts and the memoranda that he had accumulated during his months of employment in their behalf. She had a feeling of dread—a numb, sweet feeling that she could not explain except that under all of it lay the proud consciousness that he was a man who had courage, a man who was not afraid.

"How silly I am!" she said half aloud in her abstraction.

She turned her gaze away from the blinking light in the hills, a queer, guilty smile on her lips.

Across the garden from where she was flaying herself bitterly Lady Deppingham's husband was saying in low, agitated tones to Bobby Browne's wife: "Now, see here, Drusilla, I'm not saying that our—that is, Lady Deppingham and Bobby—are accountable for what has happened, but that doesn't make it any more pleasant. It's of little consequence who is trying to poison us, don't you know, and all that. They wouldn't do it, I'm sure, but somebody is! That's what I mean, d'ye see? Lady Dep?"

"I know my husband wouldn't—couldn't do such a thing, Lord Deppingham," came from Drusilla's stiff lips almost as a moan. She was very miserable.

"Of course not, my dear Drusilla," he protested nervously. Then suddenly, as his eye caught what he considered a suspicious movement of Bobby's hand as he placed a card close to Lady Deppingham's fingers: "Demme, I—I'd rather he wouldn't! But I beg your pardon, Drusilla! It's all perfectly innocent."

"Of course it's innocent!" whispered Drusilla fiercely.

"It's utter nonsense for us to suspect them of—Pray don't be so upset, Drusilla. It's all right."

"If you think I am worrying over your wife's harmless affair with my husband you are very much mistaken."

Deppingham was silent for a long time.

"I don't sleep at all these nights," he said at last miserably. She could not feel sorry for him. She could only feel for herself and her sleepless nights. "Drusilla, do—do you think they want to get rid of us? We're the obstacles, you know. We can't help it, but we are. Somebody put that pill in my tea today. It must have been a servant. It couldn't have been—er—"

"My husband, sir?"

"No; my wife. You know, Drusilla, she's not that sort. She has a horror of death and"—He stopped and wiped his brow pathetically.

"If the servants are trying to poison any of us, Lord Deppingham, it is reasonable to suspect that your wife and my husband are the ones they want to dispose of, not you and me. I don't believe it was poison you found in your tea, but if it was it was intended for one of the heirs."

"Well, there's some consolation in that," said Deppy, smiling for the first time.

The sharp rattle of firearms in the distance brought a sudden stop to his lugubrious reflections. Five, a dozen, a score of shots were heard. The blood turned cold in the veins of every one in the garden; faces blanched suddenly, and all voices were hushed. A form of paralysis seized and held them for a full minute.

Then the voice of Britt below broke harshly upon the tense, still air: "Good God! Look! It is the bungalow!"

A bright glow lighted the dark mountain side; a vivid red painted the trees; the smell of burning wood came down with the breezes. Two or three sporadic shots were borne to the ears of those who looked toward the blazing bungalow.

"They've killed Chase!" burst from the stiff lips of Bobby Browne.

CHAPTER XVII.

CHASE COMES FROM THE CLOUDS.

FOR many minutes the watchers in the chateau stared at the burning bungalow, fascinated, petrified. Through the mind of each man ran the sudden, sharp dread that Chase had met death at the hands of his enemies.

Geneva felt her heart turn cold. Then something seemed to clutch her by the throat and choke the breath out of her body. Through her brain went whirling the recollection of his last words to her that afternoon, "They'll find me ready if they come for trouble." She wondered if he had been ready for them or if they had surprised him! She had heard the shots. Chase could not have fired them all. Was he now lying dead in that blazing—She screamed aloud with the thought of it!

"Can't something be done?" she cried.

"Can't something be done?" she cried again and again, without taking her gaze from the doomed bungalow. She turned fiercely upon Bobby Browne, his countryman. Afterward she recalled that he stood staring as she had stared, Lady Deppingham clasping his arm with both of her hands. The

WHY SHE CERTIFIED

Thin, weak, or frail people—those who "take cold easily" should be prepared with Eckman's Alternative in the house. Remarkable cures of even Tuberculous (Consumptive) persons are often accomplished. For Bronchitis, Asthma, and Hay Fever, no more effective remedy exists.

Lacon, Ill., April 14, 1907.

I was troubled with Asthma and Bronchitis for seventeen years. After trying many remedies, Eckman's Alternative was recommended to me by our Parish Priest. I am now feeling fine. I cannot speak too highly of it.

(Signed Affidavit) Anna Mae McEntee. Eckman's Alternative is good for all throat and lung troubles, and is on sale glance also took in the face of Deppingham. He was looking at his wife, and his eyes were wide and glassy, but not with terror. "It may not be too late," again cried the princess. "There are enough of us here to make an effort, no matter how futile. He may be alive and trapped up."

"You're right!" shouted Browne. "He's not the kind to go down with the first rush. We must go to him. We can get there in ten minutes. Britt! Where are the guns? Are you with us, Deppingham?"

He did not wait for an answer, but dashed out of the garden and down the steps, calling to his wife to follow.

"Stop!" shouted Deppingham. "We dare not leave this place! If they have turned against Chase, they are also ready for us. I'm not a coward, Browne. We're needed here, that's all. It's too late to help Chase. They've got him, poor devil! Everybody inside! Get to the guns if possible and cut off the servants' quarters. We must not let them surprise us. Follow me!"

There was wisdom in what he said, and Browne was not slow to see it clearly. With a single penetrating glance at Geneva's despairing face, he shook his head gloomily and turned to follow Deppingham, who was hurrying off through the corridor with her ladyship.

"Come," he called, and the princess, feeling Drusilla's hand grasping her arm, gave one helpless look at the fire and hastened to obey.

In the grand hallway they came upon Britt and Saunders, white faced and excited. The white servants were clattering down the stairways, filled with alarm, but there was not one of the native attendants in sight. This was ominous enough in itself. The sound of a violent struggle in the lower corridor came to their ears. Loud voices, blows, a single shot, the rushing of feet, the panting of men in fierce combat—and then, even as the whites turned to retreat up the stairway, a crowd of men surged up the stairs from below, headed by Baillo, the major domo.

"Stop, excellencies!" he shouted again and again. Bobby Browne and Deppingham were covering the retreat, prepared to fight to the end for their women, although unarmed. It was the

No More Gray Hair.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

BRITONS STIRRED BY LITTLE AIRSHIP

Frenchman Crosses to Dover On a Monoplane.

Dover, July 26.—Just as the sun was rising Sunday morning a white-winged, bird-like machine with loudly humming motor swept out from the haze obscuring the sea toward the distant French coast, and, circling twice above the high chalky cliffs of Dover, alighted on English soil. A calm Frenchman, Louis Bleriot, a portly and red-mustached man of thirty-seven, descended from the saddle limping on a bandaged foot, which had been burned on his previous overland flight. Immediately two compatriots, who had been waving a big tri-color flag as a signal for the landing place, fell upon him enthusiastically, embracing him, shouting and pounding him on the back. They with a few soldiers and others who happened by chance to be on the scene, were the only persons to witness the finish of a most remarkable feat.

Bleriot left Les Baraques, three miles from Calais, about 4:30 a. m., on one of the smallest monoplanes ever used. He crossed the channel in a little less than half an hour, twice as swiftly as the fastest mailboat. His speed averaged more than forty-five miles an hour, sometimes it approximated sixty miles. He kept about 250 feet above the sea level and for ten minutes, while about mid-channel, was out of sight of both coasts and the French torpedo destroyer which followed him with his wife and friends aboard. The wind was blowing about twenty miles an hour and the sea was choppy.

By his achievement Bleriot won the prize of $5,000 offered by the London Daily Mail for the first flight across the English channel and stole a march on his rivals, Hubert Latham and Count De Lambert, both of whom had hoped to make the attempt Sunday.

HARRY THAW AGAIN FACES MR. JEROME

Does Not Appear Terrified Over the Prospect.

White Plains, N. Y., July 26.—After a ten days' adjournment of the latest court proceedings in the case of Harry K. Thaw against the state, the case was resumed today. The familiar figure of District Attorney Jerome has again stepped to the front of the stage and the state will take the aggressive in the effort to show that the slayer of Stanford White still is insane and if released would be a menace to the community.

Thaw himself is the only important witness remaining to be heard on his side of the case. His lawyer plans that he shall tell his life story, so as to show that his mind is normal. The cross-examination of Thaw if conducted, as it is generally believed it will be, by Jerome, should be one of the most severe ordeals that the young Pittsburger has ever faced in court. Harry Thaw does not appear to be terrified over the prospect of a heckling by his old foe, the New York district attorney. "I welcome any test," he says. "Mr. Jerome's questioning will only help in my effort to show the court my complete sanity."

Workman's Horrid Death.

New York, July 26.—Max Ixine was literally ground to death in a mangle in a Hoboken laundry. His hand caught between two immense rollers and he was crushed and flattened like a moist garment before aid reached him. He was fifty-five years old.

Victims of Hurricane.

Pensacola, Fla., July 26.—With her rigging damaged and her sails torn almost to shreds, the fishing schooner Minnie W. arrived in port last night and reported the loss of three of her crew in the gulf hurricane of last Wednesday.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

HARRIMAN'S MOUNTAIN HOME.

Features of Mansion on Ramapo
Range at Arden, N. Y.

BUILT IN FORM OF A CROSS.

Railway Magnate's Country Estate
Will Be One of the Most Remarkable
In North America—Mansion Will Contain Seventy Rooms.

It was once said of E. H. Harriman by an attorney as skilled in the rules of the game of law as the great transportation king is in the complex shifting of blocks of bonds and stocks that represent his title to more miles of railway than one man ever dominated before that Mr. Harriman, who is the president of the Union Pacific railway, moved on a plane and in an atmosphere so altitudinous that no ordinary mortal might hope to do more than contemplate his eminence from afar. That was true in a figurative sense perhaps when it was announced—at any rate, the adulatory attorney appeared to think it was—but now it is about to become literally true, so far as Mr. Harriman's home in the country is concerned.

His house on the top of one of the mountains of the Ramapo range at Arden, N. Y., is on such a height and surrounded by so many leagues of pathless forest that are his by right of purchase that he can dwell there, if he chooses, in an isolation so splendid as to be incomparable with that enjoyed by any other American multimillionaire. It is doubtful if Mr. Harriman in his wanderings over continental Europe this summer will see any castle that can equal his in its majesty of view and aloofness from, yet geographical nearness to, a vast center of population.

The Harriman home at Arden has been building for nearly three years, and when he went abroad recently he left orders that it must be ready for his occupancy when he returns in the early autumn, that no expense was to be spared, that the work must be pushed forward night and day if necessary, but that it must be finished.

The Harriman house at Arden conforms to the rules of no style of architecture except the rectangular school. The dormer windows in the attic roof are more English in their design than anything else. That is the only feature to which any architectural nationality can be assigned. It looks more like an attempt to reproduce in stone on a large and modernized scale some old New England farmhouse. It is undoubtedly designed more for use and comfort than for anything else. It contains seventy rooms, and twenty-two of these are bathrooms.

It is built of gray stone with trimmings of sandstone and is in the form of a cross. The entrance hall is in the west wing. This hall is thirty feet wide and fifty feet long. A New York city lot is twenty-five feet wide, so the spaciousness of this great entrance hall may be judged by that. Off of this is the big living room, a chamber so large that it could easily contain the floor space of the average seven room, two thousand dollar uptown flat without crowding. The other rooms are proportionately spacious. The windows on the first floor especially are large, some of them exceptionally so. The last year or two Mr. Harriman has had a passion for an abundance of air and sunlight, and one can easily imagine him going over the architect's plans and telling him, in spite of his protests that it would mar the harmony of the exterior, that certain windows must be done in his drawings.

Set on the apex of one of the highest and steepest mountains of the Ramapos, the land originally sloped abruptly away from the site of the house. The art of the landscape artists has broken and softened these declivities by the formation of a series of terraces. Many of them had to be blasted out of solid rock and their sharp outlines smoothed over with earth and turf, so that now the once rugged outlines of the bowlder strewn hilltop are graceful in their descent to the edge of the forest. In other places the terraces rise vertically from the edge of a cliff.

Hard by the house is a great swimming pool of stone and cement, a bath whose size even Caesar or Caracalla might have envied had Harriman lived in Rome in their day and built his palace there. About the grounds, too, are many sunken courts that in summer will be filled with flowers. Through the green shrubbery will shine the whiteness of marble statuary, and cool fountains in the courtyards and Italian gardens will plash and whisper all night long in midsummer when the cities on the lowlands toward the sea are swathed in torrid, humid air.

Beneath this commonplace looking mansion is a network of tunnels for the passage of servants, the conveyance of everything needed. Some are equipped with little electric tramways for the whisking of things to and fro. Everything contributing to comfort that the skill of the mechanical engineer could adapt to use in a dwelling has been installed. Human hand service has been supplemented everywhere, so far as possible, by steam, electricity and compressed air. For indoor amusement there are billiard parlors and bowling alleys enough for the entertainment of all the guests the house can hold.

It has been the contention of poets and other impecunious people from time immemorial that no man can own a landscape—that the pleasure of any extended view of nature is the common property of the pauper and the plutocrat. This is all very satisfying to the proletariat, but it is not true in this part of the Ramapos where Mr. Harriman has built his eyrie. He has become a monopolist in scenery as well as in railroads. It is practically a virgin wilderness and within forty miles of the second greatest city in the world.

The little village of Arden, which is the only means of locating the Harriman estate geographically except by latitude and longitude, is down in the valley, far below the house and miles away. It is not even visible from the top of Tower hill. Yet one of the Harriman railroads starts from near there.

This railroad is the shortest that the transportation king owns, yet it is one that is particularly and peculiarly essential to his comfort in his mountain home. It runs straight to the steep hillside. It makes no detour for the sake of easy grades, for the cars are pulled up to the top by the main strength of steam and a big steel cable. It has been used so far to transport all the building materials and machinery needed in the work that has been going on and will later be equipped with passenger cars.

The Harriman estate in the Ramapo mountains is probably the largest in area of any private property of its kind in America, though there are several that far surpass it in magnificence. Tower hill, however, is unique in the isolation and solitary grandeur that it will afford its master.—New York Press.

BOY'S AIRSHIP MOTOR.

Small, Light and Powerful, It May Revolutionize Aerial Navigation.

A new motor, the invention of Charles Godlove, a twenty-year-old St. Louis boy, which combines the best features of the standard motors in a simpler way, has recently been entered at the United States patent office for the American rights.

Owing to its light weight and small size Godlove hopes this motor will revolutionize aerial navigation. The chief feature of the motor is the great amount of horsepower that can be obtained in proportion to the size of the machine. A thirty horsepower motor will go within a sixteen inch circle and will weigh only sixty pounds. The small size and light weight are made possible by the simplicity of the mechanism.

The ignition system which necessitates a spark and carburetor is eliminated. The ignition of the gas is brought about by heat produced by high compression of air. This does away with premature explosions of the charge.

The motor has no valves or mechanism making use of valves, is air cooled and has a stationary crank shaft, the cylinders themselves revolving. This reduces the number of moving parts and hence reduces the wear.

SHIP LEAK DETECTOR.

Device That Gives Warning as Soon as Danger Appears.

Captain Joseph B. Williams of Pittsburgh has completed an instrument which sounds an alarm when a ship springs a leak, and the United States has become interested.

The detector consists of a metal foot on which rests a hollow cylinder to be placed at the point in the hold of a vessel where water might enter and prove a danger if not instantly detected. This pipe is continued to the bridge, pilothouse or other point where an officer is on duty. It ends in a brass bowl, in the center of which is a diaphragm constructed of metal and so thin as to be susceptible to the slightest pressure and so constructed as to be air tight.

Resting on this diaphragm is a piston that projects through the top of the bowl, where it may come in contact with metallic lips at each side. Over all of this is an electric battery, and on top of the battery is a bell.

When the water enters the cylinder down in the hold it drives air through the tube to the diaphragm, which instantly expands and, lifting the piston, brings it in contact with the metallic lips. This causes the alarm gong to sound.

"GUESS YOUR SILHOUETTE."

Washington Society Woman Evolves New Game For Summer.

To while away the torrid days of June a Washington society woman evolved an amusing pastime. Gathering together a half score photographs of her smartest friends, she had one of the Corcoran Art students "do" the profiles in silhouette. At one of the functions the shadow pictures were brought out and a general guessing contest instituted.

Not a girl in the crowd made a hit on her own picture, though almost everybody landed right on the first guess in the cases of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, Miss Helen Cannon, Miss Anna Ewing Cockrell, Miss Frederica Morgan, Miss Eleanor Terry and the pretty little Countess Luise Alexandra von Bernstorff.

Youthful Kansas Financiers.

Some young boys near Alma, Kan., have been practicing high finance recently by gathering crow eggs and putting them in a hen's nest to be hatched. In Kansas a bounty of 1 cent is allowed for crow eggs, but there is a bounty of 5 cents on crows, and a sitting hen charges no commission.
